A Note on the Text

Previous online and print editions of The Royal Parchment Scroll of Black Supremacy have presented versions significantly different from the original pressing. Amongst the changes were the removal of verse numbering, spelling corrections (and errors induced), and occasional omissions of entire verses.

The present text endeavors to preserve Pettersburg's original. As such, the transcription has not attempted to correct any errors, be they of spelling or induced by the printer.

The assumption is that new errors have been unwittingly induced in the transcription. Immediately following the new text are images of the work's original edition, allowing the reader to compare the present with the past. Students and scholars are implored to treat the original as definitive.

List of Identifiable Personages in the Text

Lula May Pettersburgh née Butler — the wife of the author, with whom is formed the duo-sexual divinity King Alpha, Queen Omega. Chapters 26 and 27 suggest that she was possibly fictitious.

Mrs. Indiana Coombs — the “Crown Mistress of Creation.” Possible author of Chapters 1, 2 and 3. Married to a “mad brained revival man” named Alexander Habakkuk Coombs, who apparently destroyed an earlier version of The Royal Parchment Scroll.

Ellen Park Johnson—possible mother of the author.

Professor Rodgers —better known as Robert Athlyi Rogers, author of The Holy Piby, the “Black Man’s Bible.” Founder of The House of Athlyi a/k/a Afro-Athlican Constructive Gaathly, a unique religious movement hugely influential on the eventual development of Rastafari.

Lady G(race) J(enkins) Garrison — also known as “The Comet.” One of the earlier adopters of The Holy Piby, co-founder of The Hamitic Church, the Kingston outpost of The House of Athlyi.

Charles Goodridge — another founder of the Hamitic Church, later convicted of practicing Obeah. Committed suicide.

Pastor Russel and Judge Rutherford — better known as, respectively, Charles Taze Russell and Joseph Franklin “Judge” Rutherford. Important figures in the development of the Jehovah’s Witnesses. Rutherford, like Pettersburg, claimed divine inspiration in his writing, which included the (mentioned in Chapter 17) pamphlet Millions Now Living Will Never Die!

Appendix B

Daily Gleaner, June 6, 1927, "A New Religion"

We have received two publications of the new Ethiopian religion to which we have alluded more than once recently. These books or pamphlets are complementary to the Holy Piby, the bible of the Garveyites, which is to replace the Holy Bible and which proclaim that the prophet Elijah was the Messiah, a claim which would have horrified that stern and uncompromising old Hebrew. In one of the works before us, Chapter Six, we get a fair example of the spiritual lessons to be taught to the people; thus it is written: "1, A Balm Yard is not a Hospital. 2, Neither is it a Obeah Shop. 3, Peoples that is guilty of Obeah must not visit a Balm Yard. 4, Nor in the Assembly of Black Supremacy." And so on to the end of the chapter. The grammar is like the sense, which seems to us to be indistinguishable from nonsense, and the whole concoction is so putrid that we wonder what class of people could ever take such rubbish seriously.

We have also been sent a copy of the Pibyan hymnbook. We will quote a verse from Hymn No. 7:--

When Garvey made a serpent,
And placed it on a pole,
The U.N.I.A. was told to look that way,
And then while they were looking
The Gaathly made whole
For the power of God
Is here with us to-day.

It would be interesting to know to what tune these noble and inspiring words are sung; we rather think that the New Religion, with its black god and its recent prophets, has been forced to borrow its tunes from the old hymnology. It is only fair to say, however, that this religion seems to have made precious few converts anywhere. Some silly, credulous people may have been induced to invest their money in a Black Star Line whose ships were never quite three in number and never could get from port to port without soliciting a contribution from friends to pay expenses, but those same people demurred when it came to taking over a new religion with their unfortunate commercial enterprise. As to Jamaica, it is certain that this sort of thing will be laughed out of existence. There is not only impudence about it, there is a sort of vulgarity that will disgust even the vulgar. The people of ` believe that the religion they have was revealed by God; they should stare if asked to accept a religion manufactured by some enterprising gentlemen in Kimberley, South Africa, parts of which are absolutely blasphemous. Indeed, they are beginning to laugh at this attempt already.

The object of creating a new religion is to give the Ethiopian race something different spiritually from what other races possess: that is the ostensible reason of it. The real reason is probably to extract some cash from foolish persons. Somehow or other, in all these wonderful attempts, we never get far from the cash basis. Money is the goal aimed at, the thing in view. But the game will not succeed here; the method of playing it is far too puerile. New religions are not successfully created in these days by gangs of illiterate swindlers. The plan is recognised for what it is. The bubble is soon burst; as a matter of fact this particular bubble is even now being pricked by some local Garveyites. Since the lines printed above were written we have seen a letter from one of the officials of the Jamaica branch of Marcus Garvey's Association which contains a vehement protest against the new religion and its exponents who are endeavouring to spread it here and also to indoctrinate the people of Jamaica with some seditious ideas on "Black Supremacy." The letter in question, which appeared in our issue of Saturday, denounces as swindlers the gentlemen who have elevated Marcus Garvey to the rank of prophet and have painted the Almighty in sable hue. Indeed it goes further. It protests that Marcus Garvey is a person most loyal, that the branch of his Association in this country has worked in perfect harmony with the Government of Jamaica, and that the members of this organisation "know too well that they are under the British flag and cannot go beyond the bounds of the law."

We are glad that these members know this, and we can assure them that they can never know it too well. The fact is, of course, that it is being understood that the Jamaica Government, and intelligent people in this island, of all classes, will not tolerate sedition and will deal drastically with any first appearance of it. Hence this fervid protest on the part of a Society which is claimed by some other members of that Society to be one in aim and spirit with the Garvey political and religious theories. Thus there appears to be a sort of split in the camp, and the more prudent element denounces as knaves that element which it considers as likely--to cause serious trouble. Which means that Garveyism in its more rampant form is never likely to find in Jamaica a congenial home. Which is what we have always predicted and believed.
